Joseph LeBlanc, PhD - New Executive Director

Sudbury, ON – The Board of Directors of the Social Planning Council of Sudbury (SPCS), 2015 is pleased to announce the appointment of its new executive director, Dr. Joseph LeBlanc. He comes to the Social Planning Council of Sudbury with extensive knowledge and experience engaging various and diverse groups in Northern Ontario.

As the Social Planning Council of Sudbury celebrates their 25th year, Dr. LeBlanc's leadership will help the organization into the future, ensuring SPCS continues to provide social planning services to Sudbury and the region of Northern communities.

I am thrilled to continue the amazing work of the SPCS during this our 25th year. Over the next few years, SPCS is launching our social enterprise model which aims to secure financial self-sufficiency in order to ensure we continue to provide a high level of service to the residents of the Greater City of Sudbury.

Having the ability to grow gives us the opportunity to help engage various groups in a non-biased and interactive planning process; aimed at improving the quality of life in the community. The SPCS works to identify and express social development needs and to implement, assist, and encourage program development that responds to local human service needs.
